

Andrew Bulpitt

Andrew has lived in the local area all his life and brings a long-standing commitment to supporting and promoting its heritage. As a Director of several local companies he offers extensive commercial, governance and operational experience. He has chaired numerous community events and projects over the past thirty years and has more than four decades of fundraising involvement, giving him deep insight into local audiences and civic engagement. With wide networks across local authorities, businesses and community groups, Andrew contributes strong local knowledge and community connectivity to the museum's leadership team.
