

DEVELOPMENT MANAGER

The Army Flying Museum at Middle Wallop in Hampshire tells the story of British Army Flying from the earliest attempts to conduct operations with gas filled balloons in the late 1800s to today's Army Air Corps which has operated with distinction around the world including combat operations in Iraq and Afghanistan.

We welcome about 60,000 visitors to the site each year, a number that is steadily increasing. We have recently completed a £2.4m National Lottery Heritage Fund project which significantly improved the museum and allowed us to develop the range of activities we offer. Following the Covid-19 pandemic, this is a critical time for the Museum and the Development Manager has a key part to play in terms of our income generation and engaging with new fundraising activities.

We are looking for an enthusiastic and dynamic fundraising professional to join our team. This is a varied role that has been continually developing over the last five years as we have embedded fundraising into the Museum's operations and objectives. Our Lockdown Lecture programme evolved as a response to Covid and resulted in one of our most successful fundraising campaigns. Since reopening after Lockdown, we have had success with corporate partnerships and adoption programmes but there is huge scope now for someone to put their own stamp on the programme of work. If you have the drive and desire to make a difference, then you could be the person we are looking for!

HOURS: 37.5 hours per week (some evening and weekend work will be required and flexible working will be considered).
